The professions have been compromised or corrupted.

- We will talk about:
  - Education
  - Medicine
  - Counseling

We could also talk about:

- ❑ law,
- ❑ social work,
- ❑ journalism, (Why doesn't the media cover the March for Life, for instance?)

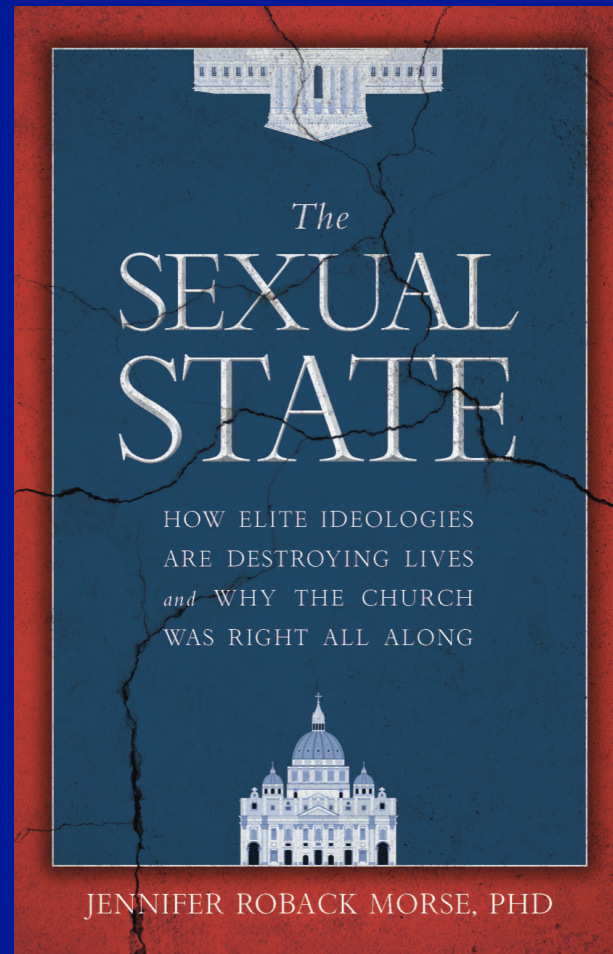

We could talk about:

- ❑ library science,
- ❑ the humanities,
- ❑ research in hard sciences.

The State is complicit.

The Long On-Ramp to the Trans Moment: practices and policies already in place.

- ❑ the weakening of parental involvement with children's decision-making, especially medical decision-making.
- ❑ the reinterpretation of the notion of consent, especially for minors.
- ❑ the use of school curriculum to promote a sexualized agenda at odds with the values of most parents.

Sexual Revolution changed incentives.

- Delayed child-bearing has become the price of entry into the professions
- Creating competitive pressure to reduce the time spent in hands on childcare.

What you need to know about egg-freezing, the hot new perk at Google, Apple, and Facebook

■ CHRIS WELLER | SEP 17, 2017, 20:00 IST

- Companies like Apple, Facebook, and Google are offering female employees the chance to freeze their eggs.
- The policy is meant to give employees more freedom to pursue family planning according to their own timeline.
- Critics say the policy sends the message to employees that work is more important than family.

Choice? Or New Expectation?

- These “family friendly” policies put increasing competitive pressure for further delay of childbearing, for the convenience of employers.
- The net result: a self-perpetuating tendency to select professionals from those who prioritize career over family.
  - In the initial choice of career.
  - For advancement and promotion.

Does this BBC Interviewer really speak for all women?

- Decision-makers and influencers come disproportionately from the childless.
- Self-Perpetuating
